SOME OBSERVATIONS AND COMMENTS ABOUT THE ABOVE:

- [a] Likely I have forgotten to include some projects, and some I intentionally excluded, e.g., my Climax Sex Board Game, for decorum or other obvious reason.
- [b] Please consider that I was at all times doing something else full-time, such as being a student, working, being a father and writing music. All of these projects were engaged on a spare-time basis.
- [c] Most of these projects required capital exceeding my resources. I wonder how much differently these projects and my life would have turned out had I capital available to adequately fund them.
- [d] The 2008-2018 period was devoid of new projects due to the Great Recession and the Dodd-Frank Act, both of which demanded my full-time attention and failed to cultivate happy new projects.
- [e] I am struck by how many of my projects depended upon education and training I never received at UCSB, where I dropped out halfway. Now I wonder how I would have done had I finished school.
- [f] This list of projects does not include books I have edited, some eight of which I can recall, or projects in which I served only as an investor or counselor, some dozen or so.
- [g] This list also does not include rather extensive and involved projects I have done for others as gifts, as means intended to edify them or for the good of the order. There were many such projects.
